

COVID-19 UPDATE

Nov. 17, 2021

SUMMARY:

The college continues to see low numbers of positive cases but increasing caseloads in the community. Stay vigilant and help us curb Covid-19.

STRESSED? HELP IS AVAILABLE!

Whether it's the stress of upcoming exams, Covid-19 issues, or family or work-related stress, you are not alone. Help is available to both students and employees.

STUDENTS: We support and encourage you to seek counseling services on and off campus through our many community partners. Visit Counseling Services on our website to learn about peer-to-peer assistance, our regional counseling partners, and more.

EMPLOYEES: The college's Employee Assistance Services Program provides free confidential counseling for stress, family, emotional and other conflicts to full-time employees. Learn more.

LOOKING TO SPRING '22:

The college's Covid-19 Task Force met this week to discuss planning for the Spring 2022 semester. In the interest of protecting the health and safety of all, you can expect our protocols to be similar to the current semester:

- Vaccination required for on-campus students
- Masks required in most on-campus locations

Check your inbox in the next few days for more on Spring '22 expectations.
