

Commencement, Pinning and Awards celebrations

Given the current guidance on social distancing and restrictions on large gatherings, the college has decided to transition our in-person end-of-the-year ceremonies to remote ceremonies this year and find alternative ways to celebrate student achievement.

This applies to graduation/commencement, nursing pinning ceremonies and our student awards ceremony. Please note, this does not affect one's ability to graduate, only the public ceremony celebrating it. Those who have applied for and completed all graduation requirements will still receive their diploma.

Online classes resume Mar. 30, faculty and staff continue remotely

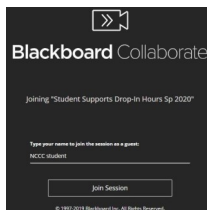

Classes are scheduled to resume Monday, Mar. 30 in an online learning format. The college will remain shuttered and non-essential employees will continue to work remotely.

Instructors will be communicating directly with you via email, Blackboard, or other methods, so please be sure to check your NCCC email and your Blackboard course for information regularly. More support is available on our Online Learning page.

We are committed to helping you succeed in your coursework for the remainder of the semester.
